Principal fishery: Brook trout

Hid Pond is located northeast of Vose Mountain. There are a number of small inlets entering the northwest side of the pond. Its outlet flows north into Butler Pond. The shoreline is wooded and undeveloped.

Hid Pond is shallow with marginal water quality for coldwater gamefish. Despite these conditions a population of brook trout survives and spawns successfully in its small tributaries. Competition from other species is light, so trout growth is good.

Hid Pond is accessible by foot via gated four wheel drive roads leaving Route 16 in Kingfield.
